15.30- Workshop Co-facilitators:

16:50 Christopher Wooldridge (Cardiff University - UK) and Jason Sprott (Sprott Planning & Environment - Australia)

The workshop will detail the importance of 'Sustainability' for ports - and will include statements on strategic policy from Valter Selen (ESPO), Antonis Michail (IAPH/WPSP) and Herman Journee (EcoSLC/ EcoPorts). Having established the global perspective and the need for collaboration, the workshop will deal with the challenge of linking policy to practice through effective implementation at local level by focussing on 'Materiality Assessments' - i.e. identifying the most important issues for 'Sustainability Strategies'. It will show 'real-life' examples of Materiality Assessments and provide participants with the tools to undertake assessments in their own context. An interactive session will draw-out participants' views on the material issues facing the sector - both now and into the future.
